As a township there is a proposed bylaw revision in review regarding the allowance of barnyard animals within our urban boundary. Initially when I read about this proposal, I failed to submit any concerns. However, since that time I have had an immediate backyard neighbour with chickens (no longer present), and I have a neighbour in close proximity with a rooster and chickens. The roosters 'free' alarm at our home at 5:45 am is not so appreciated, and the fact that the rooster crows at all hours of the day is not cool. The chicken poop that is produced with these free range birds is just hosed into the grass (if hosed at all) and will most certainly increase the rat population within our subdivision. Also not cool.

We moved to our current home 21 years ago. We love the small town feel of Smithville, and we love our neighbourhood. The occasional farm smells that come because of our surrounding farm community is something that does not bother us. The farmers were here first. Chickens living in subdivisions where the rats will affect more than just 'the farm' is not fair to those of us who have made this community our home. We can not buy the warfarin that farmers use to control rat populations. At this point we are quite concerned about the long term effects of the township passing a ByLaw allowing this practice.

Please to not pass a bylaw that allows farm animals in town.
